San José Unified's Annual Parent Education Conference Parents are Teachers Too!

March 2, 2007: –On Saturday, March 10, 2007, San José Unified's Office of Parent Education and Involvement & Title I will hold their annual parent education conference for parents of kindergarten through 12th grade students. Middle and high school students are also welcome to attend. The conference will be held at the San José Unified District Office, 855 Lenzen Ave. San Jose, Ca. 95126 from 8:30 a.m.- 3:00 p.m.

This day is devoted to teaching parents and students strategies for success in school. The conference includes keynote speakers Kenji Hakuta, Ph.D. a professor of education at Stanford University and Antonio Fuentes. Mr. Fuentes is a professor of marketing at The National Hispanic University. Topics included in the conference will be: Steps to a Healthy Community, The Path to College and Careers, The Importance of Math and Science, and Emotional Health and Wellness.

Childcare and lunch will be provided. Great entertainment, workshops and raffle prizes will make the day extremely worthwhile.

Santa Clara County's Steps to a Healthier California, EMQ's Children and Family Services, SJUSD's Healthy Start Family Support Center, SJUSD's Enhancing Education through Technology Grant (EETT), Stanford University and The National Hispanic University have collaborated to support parents in the teaching of their children to prepare them for their future.

Please call 408.535.6404 to register for the conference.
